Dental Card.

I wish to say a word to the Gentlemen and Ladies of Bangor and vicinity. As parents you would do right by your children in taking them for your service. A gentleman in Bangor, who is fifty years old, was in my office in April and said that he would give one hundred dollars if I would give one tooth in his mouth without extracting it. But he was too late. If a man will this value one tooth, what should he have for his children.

Now if you cannot save your own, you can save the teeth of your children. Almost every day some father or mother will come to the office with some young child to have the extract some aching tooth. I exclaim the mouth and find that the painful tooth is not a temporary but a permanent one. The parent is surprised, you are wrong, my child has never had but one tooth there, she will certainly have a permanent tooth come in the place of the one extracted.

A very large proportion of our patrons have never known, or have forgotten, that in our first set we have two twenty teeth. And that at about the age of four or five years old, the twenty teeth commence to come in all. I have extracted within the past year, seven permanent teeth for one little girl of twelve years of age. Will you parents suffer your children to suffer for their teeth time by your neglect? If by neglect you have lost your natural teeth, a good dentist will tell you what it will cost you to get artificial ones. Handbills of people in Bangor and vicinity will endorse by their own experience all that is here said in this paper.

DR. J. E. LINDLEY.—Though we have not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance with the gentleman, yet we have good reason to believe that he is a good skillful practitioner of the dental art. We have made use and have filled, by and of Dr. Lindley, the teeth of our children, and they are well and healthy. We believe they find good agent which Dr. Lindley has left, deprived of the privilege of being too near. We bring the work and composition of the filling left with a tooth he has inserted cannot be excelled anywhere.—Herald Democrat.

My prices now are one half the usual rate of the best artificial teeth, and these held out.

Office at Dr. Lindley's residence, Exchange Street, Bangor, Maine.

THE THOROUGH BRED TROTTING STALLION

CADMUS.

CADMUS is seven years old, is fifteen hands, 3 inches high, weighs 1025 pounds. Color a rich chestnut with dun point. He is judged superior in all those points indispensable to that rolling horse, and when crossed with our mares, will produce that fine horse wanted for general purposes. The natural gait is open and clear, with natural inclination to trot, showing a two-forty step without a fitting or training.

PEDIGREE.—Cadmus was sired by Daniel Mobillian, Nanis, Greene Co., Southern Ohio; foaled in 1864; sire Sam Butler—recorded Harbinger, bred by the late R. A. Alexander of Kentucky; Sam Butler by imported Scythian, out of Emma Wright, by imported Sagrave; Scythian by Orlando, out of Scythia, by Hiram Phelps, of Canada, by Tom Lenox; dam Dam of Cadmus was by Ohio Cadmus, sire of Pocahontas; Ohio Cadmus by American Eclipse, out of Diverton, by imported Florizel; American Eclipse by Duroc, out of Miller's Damsel by imported Messenger; Duroc by Sir Archy by imported Diomed, etc., etc. Whoever will examine the above pedigree, cannot fail to find a remarkable combination of the best horse-blood in the country.

CADMUS will start the present season at the

OF PARIS.

THE PRESS AND THE RABBLE

The systematic pandering to the spirit of illiteracy in New York has led to the lawless conflict between ruffianism and law. The fury and the full repetition of the horrors of 1863 has only been prevented by the prompt use of the bayonet and ball cartridge. The same elements of brutish force which held the city in a grasp of terror on through out the days and nights of that fearful riot, they were rampant in New York on Wednesday and need only the temporary policy of the rioters to cause to rise again the scenes of arson, rapine and butchery which have made the remembrance of those days a horror. The world has been so long and hitherto believe that a disaster that resembled in every lines the Gordon riots should prove severe enough to convince the teachings of years and however we may deprecate the shedding of blood the law of society demands that such a murderous revolt shall be stamped out effectually even at the worthless lives of the rioters. The officers and soldiers shall live by them while in the defence of law and order while in death by the whole world with the records of mortality and the officers will inspire little regret in the heart of the most humane man.

The rioters responsibility above and beyond all rabble of the streets and the liquor dealers might justly be laid upon those who are truckling to their votes, and fostering the evil influences that have cursed the city. The leaders and newspapers that have championed the rabble rioters are justly amenable for the direct result of their acts. Reason the rioters and their fellow-rioters have been able to understand that those high in power and influence will ever ready to sell the rights and encourage the encroachments of the class to whom they depended for political support. Thus story of the mob action in 1863 will be repeated the mob that at the outset of a civil war dictated to the government, demanded the daily records of the criminal courts of the city the harangues of demagogues and the sentiments of the Tammany press have taught the same lesson of subservience to the rabble and the action of the Governor in publicly abdicating authority at the behest of ruffianism was in strict keeping with the antecedents alike of public officials and leaders of the men who for hid in the place by the thieves and robbers of the city.

No planner line of demarkation between the judicial acts of law and order and the claims of the rabble need be drawn right than that which has recently been drawn by the position assumed by the metropolitan press with reference to the order of Superintendent Kelso unconditionally surrendering to the mob. While the Tribune Times, Post, Herald Standard Commercial and other respectable papers unpublished condemn the cowardly truckling to the armed violence we certainly find the World Express Star and Sun the recognized organs of Democracy a little long approved, that outrage upon public decency. The World devotes a long article to bitter denunciation of the Chief Magistrate and a full repetition of the charges of incompetency and bad judgment. The same elements of brutish force which held the city in a grasp of terror on through out the days and nights of that fearful riot, they were rampant in New York on Wednesday and need only the temporary policy of the rioters to cause to rise again the scenes of arson, rapine and butchery which have made the remembrance of those days a horror. THE NEW YORK RIOT.

The Carnage Greater than Before Reported!

The Killed Estimated at One Hundred.

THREE HUNDRED PERSONS WOUNDED!

TERRIBLE SCENES AT THE DEAD HOUSE.

ARRAIGNMENT OF THE RIOTERS.

Rumors of Renewed Outbreaks.

ALL QUIET THURSDAY MORNING—COUNTING THE VICTIMS—AN ESTIMATE THAT 100 PERSONS VERE KILLED AND 200 WOUNDED.

NEW YORK, July 13.

All is quiet this morning. The most deliberate estimate gives the number of rioters killed during the days in the vicinity of 100. Over 300 severely wounded are in the hospitals. When it is taken into consideration that only those helpless wounded and persecutedly taken to the hospital are there, those slightly wounded slipping away and hiding themselves lest it should become known that they had taken part in the riot, some approximate idea of the number wounded may be had. Certainly 300 is not too high an estimate. Of course many were killed and wounded who were merely spectators, and innocent of any hand in the disturbances.

THE POLICE HOLDING OUT.

At 2 o'clock this morning found but an impressive bivouac. In the Super[illegible] Police office lay the Chief sound asleep. In the outer office were several captains asleep on the floor. In the Inspectors office were Inspector Dilks and a number of the Central Guard soundly sleeping. Elsewhere in the building were the same scenes. All concerned were completely tired out with the day's work.

AT THE SCENE OF THE RIOT.

All last evening sth st was in the neighborhood of the riot was filled with an excited crowd, who, even at the worst, seemed to think merely that the men who had been killed were unfortunate. The doors and sashes riddled and shattered with bullets were pointed at and curiously examined. Scarcely any other business was done. The cellars down which men had fallen, and where they had died, had to be visited, so intense was the anxiety to see them.

MORBID CURIOSITY OF THE CROWD.

But a short distance from here is the 29th police precinct station house, and around it gathered a crowd waiting for the coming of wagons from the Commissioner of Charities and Correction and the full of the cold pine coffins in which the dead were to be placed. Men and women sought also the doors of Mount Sinai Hospital where the wounded and dying lay, idly wondering who was in or trembling lest some of them should be their relatives and friends. Yet the doors of both were closed, and the police stern, vigorous and uncompromising neither would admit nor give hope or despair to any.

TERRIBLE SCENE AT THE DEAD HOUSE.

In the narrow open space between the Morgue on 26th street and the East River, and just inside of the lower Bellevue Hospital gate on 26th street, there were 27 coffins side by side at 12 o'clock last night. Each contained a victim of the riot. Another coffin with a corpse in it was on the floor inside the Morgue, and more bodies were yet unnoticed lying on slabs. The Morgue was purposely kept dark, because even at that late hour there was a large crowd outside the hospital walls eagerly demanding admittance to search for their missing friends or relatives. No one was admitted.

EXHIBITING THE DEAD.

Early this morning the lower gate of Bellevue Hospital on 26th street was opened to permit the public generally to view the corpses. The number of wounded in Bellevue at midnight was 31. Most of the wounds are severe.

THE 69TH REGIMENT LOCKED IN THEIR ARMORY.

The majority of the 69th Regt were locked up in their armory all day. A small detachment that went out behaved very badly and affiliated with the rioters. As soon as this became known the doors of the armory were locked and barred.

About 11 o'clock last night four shots were fired into the window of the 9th Regiment Armory when the men were at supper, lodging in the ceiling and doing no damage.

THE CARNAGE MORE SERIOUS THAN REPORTED.

It is believed that the carnage was even more dreadful yesterday than before reported. The 84th Regt. had 4 officers and privates seriously wounded, the Seventh, Lt. Colonel and 3 privates wounded, and the Ninth, Col. Fisk and five privates wounded. Hundreds were wounded of whom the police will never be able to get any account.

SCOUTS PATROLLING THE CITY.

There are four scouts out this morning who report every half hour to the nearest station house. The 17th Regt. left the police headquarters at 8 o'clock this morning and only 100 policemen are on duty before the building. Gen Shaler and staff are still at their post.

IDENTIFYING THE DEAD—DISTRESSING SCENES.

At least 700 persons must have passed around the bodies exposed at the Morgue this morning, and many harrowing scenes occurred as the dead were recognized by friends. The mother of a boy of 17, who was shot as he was returning from school, came to see his dead body, having learned from some friends that he was at the morgue. It was however confirmed and the lid nailed down ready for removal, when the officers told her kindly she would have to wait until it was brought home. At that she broke out into a wild complaint and in accents broken by emotion, cried out, "Oh won't you let me see my boy, whatever he did any harm to anybody. Oh, let me see him! let me see him. Do dear, give me one look at him. What will I do at all, at all? I was 24 years in England and this did not happen! and she went on in a sort of half crazed manner, evidently almost driven out of her senses by the sudden blow. Many other distressing incidents occurred during the work of identification, which go to make up the sad history of the 12th of July 1871.

PERSONS KILLED IN THE TOMBS—DEATH OF AN ATTEMPT AT RESCUE.

One hundred and forty-five of the rioters were brought to the Tombs at 12 o'clock, by Capt McDonnell's command. The greatest excitement prevails, as it is intimated that some of the Bowieyarders intend to make an attempt to rescue their friends. An investigation is now going on.

SCENES ON THE MARCH—THE SEVENTH REGIMENT ON THE MARCH.

New York, 2.45 p. m. A report says a large mob of men is marching down from Harlem. The 7th Regt. is ordered out.

Rumors have just reached the police headquarters that fighting is now going on at the Bowery. Nothing official has yet been received.

ENSATION REPORTS CONTRADICTED—ALL QUIET IN THE CITY.

Later—Evening. Notwithstanding the exciting rumors that the riot was renewed to-day among the Bowery and Westward still that the 7th regiment was ordered out to disperse the mob, no dispatches reporting disturbances were received at the police headquarters during the afternoon.

EXAMINING THE PRISONERS.

At the Tombs each prisoner is separately examined, and where the party had committed no other act than participating in the riot, he was discharged. In all such cases, where weapons were found on the prisoners, the party was committed for examination.

LIFE'S BETTER MOMENTS.

Life has its moments
Of beauty and bloom
Of which you will read
On the edge of the tomb.
Blessing the giving,
Blessed yet more
Blessed are we who receive
And leave no debt.

Hour of the morning,
Dinging the sky,
Come to our homes,
Call out with them by.
Stillness of evening
Ring soft as the chime
Darkness enwraps them,
We see them no more.

Suffice better moments,
Sunshine appear,
Drawing in beauty,
Our hearts to cheer.
Blest by their Bigger,
Like shadows of river;
Wafted to us by the Giver,
Might ineffable Heaven.

Tests are taken by the engineer, in the bearing of the engineer, who then starts the pump, and runs till the tank is full, which, due notice is given by the cessation of the water.

75,000 Acres

OF THE

Timber Land

For Sale at a Low Rate.

Situated on Moose River, in the town of Greig, Lewis County, New York.

Said timber consists of White Hemlock, Spruce, Pine and Hardwood, the spruce and pine in large quantities, located in the aforesaid tract, which will enable the purchaser, thus enabling the land and timber to be purchased at a comparatively cheap rate. The timber is excellent in quality in all grades, from the hemlock and hardwood down, being only from six to sixteen miles from both the Black River R. R. and Black River, and the best lumber in the Albany Market. The land is comparatively good, well watered and good for farming purposes. Moose River, which extends through the tract, is a large stream and empties into Black River, where the aforesaid canal leads into Erie. At the point of junction of the rivers, is a fall of sixty feet, over which the waters of both rivers flow, thus forming an unlimited water power, which runs right in the Canal and at the lowest, which would carry the immense amount of timber from the aforesaid lands.

Any parties desiring to manufacture lumber will, on visiting the premises, see the advantages. The land and timber can be purchased at a cheap rate and delivered at market.
